Record of Recommendations and Chief Judge Designations and Presidential Appointments to the District of Columbia Court of Appeals and the Superior Court of the District of Columbia
May 8, 1975 to September 30, 2011

INTRODUCTION

Relying on available records, including Congressional and District of Columbia Judicial Nomination Commission (“JNC” or “Commission”) records, as well as notices published in the Daily Washington Law Reporter, the Commission is pleased to release this historic compilation of JNC recommendations made to the President of the United States, Presidential appointments to the District of Columbia courts, and the JNC’s designations of the Chief Judges for those courts.

On the occasion of this initial release of what is expected to be an annual publication, the Commission Chair, Judge Emmet G. Sullivan, gives special recognition and expresses his appreciation to Executive Director Kim M. Whatley and Summer Intern Joseph R.A. Fruth for their tireless and meticulous efforts in researching and compiling this information, which spans forty years and encompasses the various branches of both the federal and District of Columbia governments. Judge Sullivan also thanks Addy Schmitt, Esquire, for first suggesting this project more than five years ago and devoting many hours since then to its completion, and to Executive Assistant Eunice Holt-Martin for her assistance and support in this endeavor.

The District of Columbia Court of Appeals and the Superior Court of the District of Columbia were established by Congress on July 29, 1970 (Public Law 91-358, 84 Stat. 473). The District of Columbia Judicial Nomination Commission was established by Congress on December 24, 1973 (Public Law 93-198, 87 Stat. 795). The JNC is composed of seven members—two appointed by the Mayor of the District of Columbia, two by the Board of Governors of the District of Columbia Bar Association (Unified), one by the Council of the District of Columbia, one by the President of the United States, and one judicial member appointed by the Chief Judge of the United States District Court for the District of Columbia. Each member is appointed for a six-year term, except the member appointed by the President, who is appointed for a five-year term.

The JNC works to provide the citizens of the District of Columbia with the best possible court system by (a) soliciting a diverse and talented pool of applicants for each judicial vacancy; (b) screening applicants to ensure they have the requisite experience, skill, temperament, and qualifications for judicial office; and (c) recommending the three most qualified applicants to the President of the United States for his or her consideration in selecting a nominee to fill each judicial vacancy on the District of Columbia Court of Appeals and the Superior Court of the District of Columbia. The JNC also designates the Chief Judges of the District of Columbia courts for four-year terms.

In creating this document, the authors have done their best to ensure accuracy and completeness. Nevertheless, in compiling more than four decades of data based on various sources of historical information, and limited in certain instances by a lack of available data, errors and omissions may have inadvertently been made. The Commission regrets any errors in this document, and asks that any such errors be brought to the Executive Director’s attention so that they may be corrected as soon as practicable.
